

SCHOOL OF LIBERAL ARTS

The mission of the School of Liberal Arts is to prepare students to achieve their highest academic and career goals through engagement in a learning community endowed with a rich and diverse Liberal Arts curriculum that fosters scholarly excellence, cultural awareness, and social responsibility.

- ✓ Open to students who have Creole as a Native language
- ✓ This course can be taken to meet your College Option Requirement
- ✓ HACR 204 will be offered in SPRING 2019

HAITIAN CREOLE FOR NATIVE SPEAKERS

NEW COURSE OFFERED

HACR 203

on SATURDAYS / 11:20AM - 2:00PM

Starting in FALL 2018 Semester

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course presents the fundamentals of writing and reading for students whose knowledge of Haitian Creole is limited to spoken communication. Emphasis is put on writing, reading skills and the distinctions among various levels of dialect and language. It is designed to enhance students' four abilities to communicate in a language: listening, speaking, reading and writing.

Per se, this course takes a highly interactive approach towards presentation and practice of the language. It integrates cultural information and exchange. The textbook "The Haitian Creole Language: History, Structure, Use and Education" offers the students a rich variety of insights to cultural, social and political realities of the entire Creole-speaking World composed of more than 20 million Speakers in the globe.

Professor Maria-Luisa Ruiz, Chair
World Languages and Cultures Department
1650 Bedford Avenue, Room B-1007
Brooklyn, NY 11225
MLRuiz@mec.cuny.edu

CALL NOW! 718-270-4958