Iamque opus exegi, quod nec lovis ira nec ignis
Of princes shall outlive this pow'rful rhyme, μή, φίλε νυχχέ. βίον οίδανατον σπευδέ sad relic of departed worth!
Immortal, though no more; though fallen, great!

This lament,
The memory of thy grievous wrong

Will fade . . .
But genius is omnipotent
To hallow . . .

. . . fragments, which time, the poet, the critic, or the grammarian has mad[ ]ith a precisely chosen psychical distance.
These fragments have I shored against my ruins.
RITA'S DIGEST

Who What Where

JOSEPH MARTHA L73 remembers the first summer: "Thanks for praising the pioneers who believed that the kid would be healthy before s/he was born." PHYLIS ZAGANO L73 is teaching at Fordham University. CAROL DAVIS L74 has been working for the past 5 years as a vocational rehabilitation counselor at the International Center for the Disabled. She still has two Catullus poems by heart!

STEVEN LUND L75 is a production control specialist for the Library Bindery Co. in Horsham, Pa. LESLIE TIERSTEIN L75 is designing interpreters & compilers for microcomputers. JEFFREY WOLLOCK L75 received an ACLS fellowship for post-doctoral work. Jeff will work toward the publication of his Oxford dissertation.

ROBERT ZOLLER L75 has presented us with a copy of his first book, The Lost Key to Prediction: the Arabic Parts in Astrology.

ELIZABETH BECKWITH L76, G79 is a graduate assistant at Catholic U., teaching Latin with Moreland & Fleischer (what else?). She will divide the summer by offering a 6-week intensive course and writing an MA thesis on Norman hagiography.

PAUL ROREM L76 is now pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran Church of Menlo Park. Paul has been generous and enthusiastic in his efforts to recruit students for the LGI. GRACE CONLEY L77 was married this past winter.

LOUISE WEJKSNORA L77, having passed her orals in English at the CUNY grad. school, now commutes from Milwaukee. KAREN-EDIS BARZMAN L78 spent the spring in the archives of Florence, where she gave a public lecture in May. A winner of a Kress Foundation Research Grant for the coming year, Karen-edis has also received the Adolf Katzenellenbogen Prize from Johns Hopkins, where she is a grad. student in art history.

JAMES BONOMO L78, while working for an import/export firm still finds time to read some Latin. Jim, now living in Brooklyn, would like to start an informal reading group; any takers? Interested people should call Rita at 790-4284, weekdays, 10-5.

JULIE CRUISE L78, back home from Iowa, is working at the St. Louis County Library. JOAN DAYAN L78 loves teaching English at Yale. Joan presented a paper at the MLA meeting in December.

ELLIO LEVY G78 is focusing on science courses at Columbia in pursuit of admission to med school in fall 1983. MARILYN PETTIT L78 is asst. director of NYU's Archives Training Program—the history dept.'s MA program.

JEREMIAH REILLY L78 took a BA in Greek with honors at Swarthmore last spring. To celebrate, he took intensive German at Middlebury before joining a Philadelphia law firm as a legal assistant specializing in medical products liability.

ALBERT ROSSI L78 published an article on Dante and Vergil in Studies in Medieval and Renaissance History. He will go to Padua next year to write his dissertation. JOHN ROTH L78 was recently married. John took his Latin classes to the Search for Alexander exhibit when it arrived in Boston.

Robert Slater L78 is working as a waiter in a New York restaurant while taking science courses at Columbia. Bob is looking forward to podiatry school in the fall. He keeps up his Latin by tutoring a fourth-grader in his spare time.

CATHERINE TORIZIAN L78, G79, AG81 was a teaching asst. in classical mythology at the U. of Toronto this past semester. MARGOT BONNER L79 is in no hurry to end her sojourn in China. She toured southern Taiwan in Dec. and plans to visit the mainland this summer.

KATE BUTCHER G79 has embraced the simple life in Maine—weaving, sewing, running a camp for 5-10-year-olds, restoring the house which she shares with two others, and working for a printer in the photography dept. As Hotspur reportedly said, "Fie upon this quiet life! I want work!"

ANNE CLARK L79, recently married, took an MA last year & has already finished the first of two field exams. Anne has a fellowship this summer to participate in a seminar in medieval Latin paleography at Harvard.

JON FLEMING L79, UPI's man in Portland, Maine, was married in January to Cathy Marco.

FRED GARCIA G79, AG81 works as a PR firm as an account exec. He finds it "very challenging & rewarding. I find that 2 summers of LGI pace prepared me quite well to handle the quantity & complexity of the work."

NIGEL HINSELWOOD L79 is still working in a D.C. bookstore and doing lots of writing.

PAMELA SHEINGORN L81 delivered a lecture in Dec. at the CUNY Grad. Center entitled Stantesque iuxta Imaginem: The Symbiotic Relationship of Art and Drama in the Early Middle Ages.

BOB SULLIVAN G81, while keeping up his Greek, has been studying the German image of Greece from 1871 to 1945.
CUNYFORMS

Chased off a bicultural site at Tomi by a barrage of flying wedges, Onda Take took the wedges to Washington to announce her discovery. What she had fell into place. Now for the meaning . . . Can you help her? Are the wedges in Greek or Latin? What letters are missing? Where do the inscriptions begin? In which direction do they run? Send your answers in time for the convention, care of her colleague, Amuntha Rooens G77.

DO YOU HAVE A HEAD FOR BLOCKS?

One dull day a pre-school Actaeon, pent in his Latin playpen (it was Tuesday), pondered his monogrammatical blocks. He chose one and thought, "Yes, where am I from?" He chose another: "And where to?" He mixed in a third choice: "Where will das Ewig-Weibliches lead me?" And a fourth choice he added to the first three, jumbling them up: "Will she take me to her leader, the source of history's source, Helen's mother?" And a fifth choice: "Or to a queen and huntress, chaste and fair, say, Diana?" Mixing in another chosen block, he thought, "Ha, I bet she'd throw cold water on that idea!" And another choice: "But dear me, what's there to lose? then let her choose!" Mixing in one last block, he concluded, "Aunt Semele says to beware of choices: they bind us in."
