Politics by Other Greens Transnational Movements for Environmental Justice

Dr. David N. Pellow is an activist-scholar who has published widely on environmental justice issues in communities of color. His books include: The Silicon Valley of Dreams: Environmental Injustice, Immigrant Workers, and the High-Tech Global Economy (with Lisa Sun-Hee Park, New York University Press 2002), Garbage Wars: The Struggle for Environmental Justice in Chicago (MIT Press, 2002), Urban Recycling and the Search For Sustainable Community Development (with Adam Weinberg and Allan Schnaiberg, Princeton University Press, 2000), and Power, Justice, and the Environment: A Critical Appraisal of the Environmental Justice Movement (editor, with Robert J. Brulle, MIT Press 2005). He is Associate Professor of Ethnic Studies at the University of California, San Diego where he teaches courses on social movements, environmental justice, globalization, and immigration, race, and ethnicity. Pellow is also the Director of the "California Cultures in Comparative Perspective" an international research initiative based at UCSD. He has served on the Boards of Directors of several community-based organizations that are dedicated to improving the living and working environments for people of color, immigrants, and low-income persons. He also recently served on the President's Council on Sustainable Development.
