Harlem Diary Nine Voices of Resilience

Terry Williams is professor of sociology at The New School for Social Research. He graduated with a Ph.D. in Sociology from The City University of New York in 1978. His numerous publications include books such as Teenage Suicide Notes (forthcoming) Hope in the Projects (1994), Crackhouse: Notes from the End of the Line (1992), The Cocaine Kids: The Inside Story of a Teenage Drug Ring (1989), and Growing Up Poor (1985). Williams created an ethnographic documentary called Harlem Diary where he started the Harlem Writers Crew, comprising teenagers who kept video journals and met weekly to discuss their experiences. Some of his research and teaching concentrations include race, drug culture, urban life, and poverty.
