Alternative Media in Times of Unrest

DeeDee Halleck is a media activist and co-founder of Paper Tiger Television, the Deep Dish Satellite Network, Freespeech TV and Indymedia. She is a major influence on radical media makers and her work has inspired satirists and critics of mainstream media throughout the world. Her talk is particularly important in light of today's pushback against neo-liberalism, capitalism, and Wall Street. She is professor emerita in the Department of Communication at the University of California at San Diego. Her film, Mural on Our Street, was nominated for an Academy Award. Her films have been shown at numerous international film festivals and she has received several awards for life time achievement, such as the "Indy" from the Association of Independent Video and Filmmakers. Her work has been featured in installations at the Whitney Museum of American Art, the Austrian Triennial of Photography, the Wexner Center, the Gallery at the San Francisco Art Institute, the Fort Lauderdale Museum of Art, the Bellevue Art Museum and the Berkeley Art Museum. She is currently working on mapping community media around the world on www.deepdishwavesofchange.com.
