Debating the Future of Policing

Heather Mac Donald is the Thomas W. Smith Fellow at the Manhattan Institute and a contributing editor of City Journal. She is a recipient of the 2005 Bradley Prize. Mac Donald's work at City Journal has canvassed a range of topics, including higher education, immigration, policing and "racial" profiling, homelessness and homeless advocacy, criminal-justice reform, and race relations. Her writing has appeared in the Wall Street Journal, Washington Post, New York Times, Los Angeles Times, The New Republic, and The New Criterion.

Alex Vitale is professor of sociology and coordinator of the Policing and Social Justice Project at Brooklyn College. He has spent the last 25 years writing about policing, beginning with his civil rights work for the San Francisco Coalition on homelessness in the early 1990's. In addition to academic research, he consults for police departments and human rights organizations internationally, and also serves on the New York State Advisory Committee of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights. Prof. Vitale's writings have appeared in the NY Daily News, New York Times, The Nation, and The New Inquiry.

Robert Cherry will moderate. He is professor of economics at Brooklyn and CUNY Graduate Center.
