

The Wolfe Institute

The Ethyle R. Wolfe Institute for the Humanities, in cooperation with the School of Education, the Department of History, and the Late Antique-Medieval-Early Modern Faculty Working Group, presents New York Times Bestselling Children's Book Author

Making the Middle Ages Real through Fiction

Author Adam Gidwitz talks about writing historical fiction for young people, while also taking on the toughest hot-button topics of today. His new book, The Inquisitor's Tale, takes place in France in 1242, but it addresses diversity, religious persecution, and government control of expression. Fans of history, fiction, and those preparing to teach young people will enjoy this deep-dive into making fiction, making it fun, and making it fierce.

Adam Gidwitz is the New York Times bestselling author of A Tale Dark and Grimm (Penguin, 2010) and its companion novels, and also Star Wars: The Empire Strikes Back--So You Want to Be a Jedi? (Disney Lucasfilm Press, 2015)

Tuesday, October 25, 2016

5:30 p.m.

Woody Tanger Auditorium
Brooklyn College Library

For information: 718.951.5847 wolfeinstitute@brooklyn.cuny.edu Twitter: twitter.com/Wolfe_Institute