

THE BROOKLYN COLLEGE FOUNDATION

Annual Report 2010 - 2011

DEAR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS,

The fiscal year ending June 30, 2011, was one of solid growth for the Brooklyn College Foundation. The number of contributions from alumni and friends continued to rise and the total value of gifts and pledges nearly doubled over the previous year. I am pleased to report that we are making considerable progress toward the $200 million goal of our Foundation for Success Campaign.

Although the amount raised is impressive, the impact of these donations is what counts. Through the generosity of friends, alumni and private foundations, we were able to grant over 1,200 scholarships and awards. We have provided funding for students to take advantage of unique learning opportunities from New Orleans to Peru, from Paris to South Africa and, of course, right here in Brooklyn. And we have supported new facilities and equipment necessary to provide students with a 21st century education of the highest quality.

As chair of the foundation, I am grateful to my fellow trustees for their engagement and leadership. The continuing impact of the foundation is due in large part to their strategic counsel and dedication.

I am also grateful for the privilege to work alongside President Karen L. Gould. Under her leadership, Brooklyn College has charted an ambitious and exciting vision for the future with student success at its core.

On behalf of the trustees and staff of the Brooklyn College Foundation, I want to thank everyone who has contributed to our mission to provide access to excellence for the students of this great institution.

We sincerely appreciate your support.

Sincerely,

Barry R. Feirstein '74
Chair, Brooklyn College Foundation

DEAR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS OF BROOKLYN COLLEGE,

Through the stewardship and provision of private support, the Brooklyn College Foundation is a vital partner in our mission to provide affordable access to excellent higher education. I wish to thank Chair Barry Feirstein for his leadership and each of the trustees who volunteer their time and expertise in spite of many competing worthy causes.

As president, I see every day the impact of the foundation on our students and the college. The most visible example on our campus today is the construction of the Leonard & Claire Tow Center for the Performing Arts, a public-private partnership made possible through a $10 million donation from the Tow family and over $8 million from other alumni. The center will provide state-of-the-art facilities for our nationally recognized music and theater programs.

The Magner Center for Career Development and Internships, an essential resource for our student body, is also made possible by private funding. Without it, significantly fewer of our students would have access to invaluable hands-on experience in their fields. Many more students would simply be unable to attend college were it not for scholarship funds available through the foundation.

None of this would be possible without the generous support of alumni, friends, corporations and private foundations. Donated private funds provide a margin of excellence and the resources that enable access to students from all economic backgrounds.

While every donation makes a meaningful difference, on the pages that follow you will read about three alumni who had a special impact this year on our current and future students: Yolanda Jacobs '35, Murray Koppelman '57 and Florence Cohen Rosen '59. On behalf of the entire college community, I extend each of them our sincere appreciation.

To those who contributed in FY11, we are also deeply grateful for your ongoing support. With your help, we will continue to build on the strong legacy of Brooklyn College for generations to come.

Sincerely,

Karen L. Gould
President

INTRODUCTION

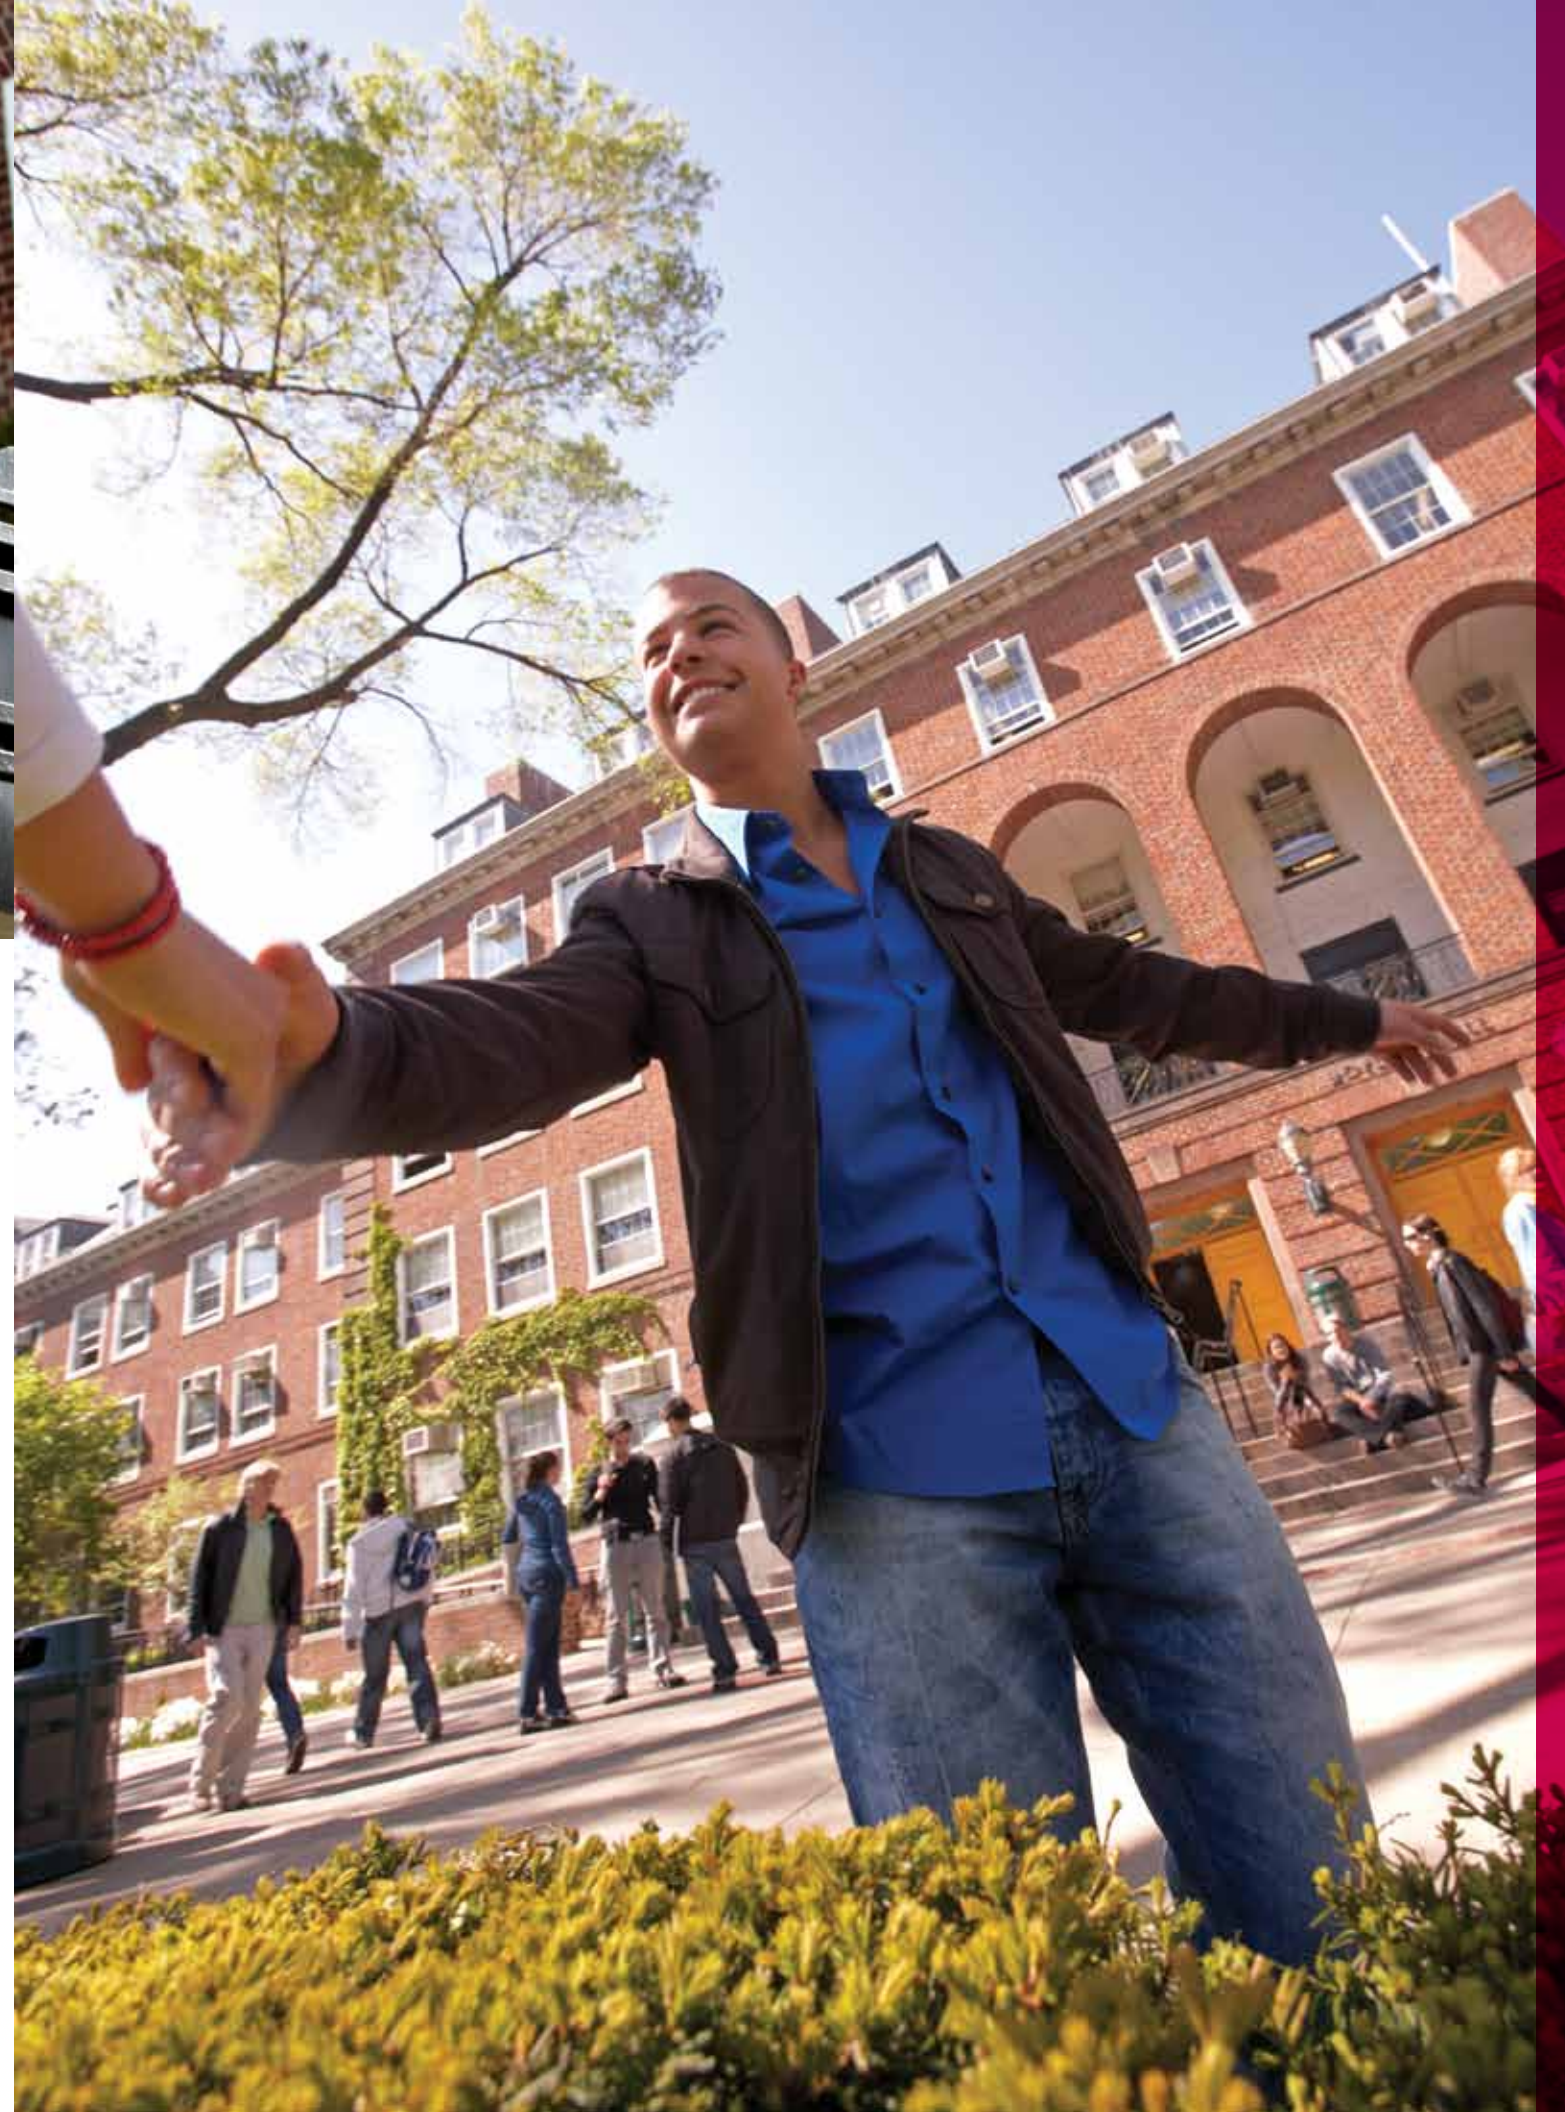

At the dedication ceremony for our beautiful new campus in 1936, President Franklin Roosevelt announced to the audience: "I am glad to come here today and to wish to Brooklyn College the fine and successful future that it deserves. You, here, are doing a great work. May it live through the generations to come. ..." We at the Brooklyn College Foundation have made it our mission to live up to Roosevelt's words with a commitment to providing new generations of students with access to excellence.

This year we were able to continue that commitment thanks in large part to the gifts of three visionary alumni: Yolanda Jacobs '35, Murray Koppelman '57 and Florence Cohen Rosen '59. From Jacobs, we received a bequest of more than $1.32 million to aid, through scholarship, needy and deserving students. Koppelman's tenacity and $2.5 million donation helped to secure a much-needed expansion of our physical campus. And due to Rosen's generosity, eight students traveled to locations around the world to expand their global imaginations and experiences.

These contributions, and those like them, permit us to provide financial access to our students through awards, prizes and scholarships. They also allow us to grow and renew our campus, providing students with the state-of-the-art facilities and technology necessary for a 21st century education of superior quality.

Our alumni exemplify the spirit of generosity. They have been blessed with opportunities and benefitted from the time they spent at the college, and they recognize the value in making a way for those who come after. It is due to their support—your support—that an excellent Brooklyn College education remains accessible to students from all walks of life. It is because of you that the great work of Brooklyn College is alive and well, and our students will prosper for generations to come.

Yolanda Jacobs '35 made possible the dreams of an untold number of students by bequeathing a gift of more than $1.32 million to Brooklyn College.

Ordinarily, the Brooklyn College Foundation is made aware of generous bequests in advance. Jacobs' gift, however, came as a surprise.

"We were never notified that she had passed," says Stephanie Ehrlich, the foundation's deputy director of development. "We only found out when we received the envelope from an attorney's office with a check of more than $1.32 million and a copy of the will."

Our staff was anxious to learn more about Jacobs. After some preliminary research, we were put in contact with Eleazer Hirmes, Jacobs' best friend and the trustee of Jacobs' trust. Mr. Hirmes remembers her as a "sweet and kind person who enjoyed life and loved to laugh."

She indicated to Hirmes that, rather than have a building named after her, she wanted her gift to directly benefit the lives of students. Thus, the Iris G. Giannotta and Yolanda Jacobs Scholarship—named after Jacobs and her sister Iris, who also attended the college—will assist "needy and/or deserving students."

Students will be eligible to apply for the award, which will provide approximately $53,000 in funds annually, beginning in the 2012–13 academic year.

Born in 1913, Jacobs attended the college just 12 years after the passage of the historic 19th Amendment, which finally granted women in the United States the right to vote and emboldened a generation of women and girls to participate more fully and independently in American society. As colleges expanded, women enjoyed increased opportunities to receive a college education. It was during this boom that Jacobs had the chance to attend Brooklyn College, the first coeducational public liberal arts institution in New York City.

Jacobs was the daughter of songwriter Oreste Giannotta, an Italian immigrant from Naples who arrived at Ellis Island in 1903. Giannotta eventually settled down with his family in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, about the same time that Jacobs and Iris enrolled at Brooklyn College. After graduating, Jacobs worked at Imperial Linens as manager of the foreign sales department. There, she met and married her husband, Edwin. When he passed away in 1980, Iris came to live with her in their Manhattan apartment. Iris died in 2006. Jacobs passed away four years later, on December 24, 2010, at the age of 97.

Brooklyn College owes a debt of gratitude to Yolanda Jacobs, whose generosity will transform the lives of students for generations to come.

YOLANDA JACOBS

In 1929, when the land to build the newly established Brooklyn College was purchased, college administrators and state officials viewed the carefully tended golf course and Ringling Brothers' Circus fairgrounds as the right place to build. The neighboring lot didn't seem to hold much interest.

The area bordering the east side of the proposed campus was an awkwardly shaped triangle, home to the Scranton & Lehigh Coal Company's towering storage facility and a large stable. Throughout the day and into the night, the facility rumbled with coal falling down a long chute and into railroad cars. No one considered it a setting that would add much to the college. As the local Brooklyn Times reported at the time, the site was judged to be "undesirable for a college environment."

But that was 83 years ago. With soaring enrollments and demand for degree programs on the rise, opportunities to modernize and expand the college's facilities are now critical to its future; options, however, are limited. Over eight decades, the campus has become all but landlocked, with an unyielding border of houses, apartment buildings, schools and retail outlets on all sides. It was with this in mind that the college began to imagine new possibilities for where the old Scranton & Lehigh storage facility once stood. As the only remaining piece of property adjacent to the campus, its natural proximity presented opportunities that would benefit the entire college community for generations to come.

The Brooklyn College Foundation was eager to take the lead. Traditionally, the foundation supports the college's core mission by raising funds for student scholarships, faculty development and academic programs, but Andrew Sillen '74, vice president for institutional advancement and executive director of the foundation, immediately saw the virtue of helping to secure the land.

"We were breaking new ground here," Sillen said about raising funds for the land's purchase. "The foundation seeks to support the college's mission to provide access to excellence. If we could provide land for a new facility, I believed we would address the 'excellence' side of the equation in a very profound way."

The idea was proposed to the administration and trustees with the aid of a map that defined the property owned by the college in blue and the surrounding area in white. It was a stark contrast, and it clearly demonstrated the potential value of the site.

"Anybody who looked at that map immediately understood why we had to obtain that property," said Sillen.

The foundation began to meet with the property owner, a private equity company well-known for its reluctance to sell. Several trustees with expertise in real estate, particularly Edwin Cohen '62, assisted with the negotiations. Every one of them advised the college to be patient; wise advice as it required more than two years of discussions with the seller before an agreement was reached.

Of equal concern was raising the funds necessary to purchase the property. While all the trustees were supportive, Murray Koppelman '57, president and CEO of Eastlake Securities, became very passionate about the project.

"I'm a make-it-happen person," Koppelman said in a Wall Street Journal interview. "Finding a piece of property is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. We had to jump on it."

Koppelman contributed $2.5 million to the purchase. Like many Brooklyn College students, he grew up poor, helping to support his family with part-time jobs. After living for two years on a kibbutz in Israel's Negev Desert and serving in the U.S. Army in the Korean War, Koppelman attended Brooklyn College where he graduated cum laude with a bachelor's degree in accounting.

Remembering his years at Brooklyn College, Koppelman said, "I was nothing. I came from being on home relief to becoming president of a firm listed on the New York Stock Exchange. I'm paying back now for future generations to benefit and have the opportunity that I had."

Many students will benefit from Koppelman's generosity and the acquisition of the property. In recent years, there has been a surge of students, many coming from homes as poor as Koppelman's own, who are just as academically ambitious and poised for success.

Speaking about the promise inherent in the new property and its potential to serve our students, President Karen L. Gould noted, "We are in the midst of a renaissance; there is no doubt about that. Our students deserve a 21st century learning environment."

The property is located on Nostrand Avenue near the Flatbush Junction. Despite decades of use by heavy industry, it is environmentally sound. The 25,000 square foot site, when combined with the adjacent parking lot on campus, provides a total of 75,000 square feet. This presents the college with an opportunity to develop a new residence hall; a college-related retail space; or a potential home for the new School of Business, which currently enrolls 3,000 students each year. Whatever the college decides to build on the site, its impact will be a fitting legacy for Koppelman's generous contribution.

"There's always a special place in my heart for Brooklyn College," Koppelman said. "This was a special opportunity to help the institution that continues to help students realize their full potential. I feel honored to be part of that mission."

LEONARD & CLAIRE TOW CENTER FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS

The eastern perimeter of our campus is in the initial stages of a stunning transformation, fueled by support from our alumni. In addition to the Nostrand Avenue property, which presents an opportunity to re-envision the easternmost edge of the campus, construction is already underway on a nearby building that will modernize our facilities for the performing arts.

Through the vision of Leonard '50 and Claire '52 Tow, the School of Visual, Media and Performing Arts will soon have a fitting home for instruction, rehearsal, production and performance. The Leonard & Claire Tow Center for the Performing Arts will provide the Conservatory of Music and Department of Theater with facilities equal to the quality and stature of their programs.

The music and theater programs at Brooklyn College share a legacy of nurturing talented students and attracting renowned artists to the faculty. The opportunity to study with performers and playwrights who have garnered Obie awards, Guggenheim fellowships, Grammy Award and Pulitzer Prize nominations, and induction into the American Academy of Arts and Letters provides our students with a distinct understanding of their craft and a gateway to professional success.

In addition to the considerable benefits to these academic programs, the performing arts center will be a welcoming environment for the many community members who attend performances by our students and faculty. An expansive glass façade will illuminate the interior's striking lobby and exhibition space; a 225-seat, flexible performance space with variable acoustics will offer an ideal setting for music and theater; and rehearsal rooms will double as additional performance venues. The building will also house a recording studio, a sound simulation lab, a center for computer music, a choral rehearsal room, an industry-standard scene shop, and more than 30 music studios and practice rooms.

An integral part of the center's design is the modernization of the Hillel Gate, one of the busiest entrances to the college. The plan calls for an inviting landscaped walkway with a clear path to the rest of the campus and a view of the library's iconic tower.

A groundbreaking ceremony on May 13, 2011, marked the beginning of construction. The center is scheduled to open in 2014.

PERFORMING ARTS

Florence Cohen Rosen '59, a member of the Brooklyn College Foundation Board of Trustees, and her husband, Robert A. Rosen, wanted to give students the opportunity to expand their education beyond the classroom. A business woman and former teacher, Rosen believes it is important for students to explore their own interests in a way that engages them in the world and provides deeper, personal insight into their aspirations.

Elizabeth Cusick '12, Health and Nutrition Sciences

Elizabeth Cusick's project took her to Cape Town, South Africa, to study the effects of HIV on child development. At the Children's Infectious Disease Research Unit, also known as KIDCRU, she examined infected children to determine if there were disparities between their head size and the head size of uninfected children. She found that children infected with HIV experience decelerated head growth, which raises neurological concerns as head growth is directly linked to brain development.

Her research further revealed that there is more to contend with in the treatment of HIV than issues related to health. Political roadblocks, including South Africa's dismantled system of apartheid and its lingering effect on the conditions of hospitals that serve black South Africans, have made effective treatment difficult. But Cusick is inspired by the challenge.

"Not only did the Rosen Fellowship provide me with the opportunity to conduct cutting-edge pediatric HIV research," she said, "it solidified my interest in child development, medicine and public health."

Eric Carlsen '13, CUNY Baccalaureate for Unique and Interdisciplinary Studies

With his Rosen Fellowship funding, Eric Carlsen surveyed America's burgeoning urban agricultural movement to determine if it played a role in meeting the nutritional needs of inner-city communities. He traveled across the country to cities like Detroit, New Orleans and Santa Cruz, finding thriving farms in run-down neighborhoods and areas devastated by natural disasters.

Working alongside local residents, Carlsen discovered communities benefited economically as well as nutritionally from growing fruits and vegetables. Communities got an economic jolt from the farms, which provided jobs and valuable skills to many homeless and teenage residents.

"It's too early to tell if urban farming will change our food system," Carlsen said, "but there are many dedicated people across the country — and in our own city — who are doing great things. Right now it feels real."

With the help of the Brooklyn College Foundation, Rosen designed a program granting eight students $4,000 to $7,000 each to design and carry out a fellowship that would help prepare them to achieve their career goals. This past summer, the first cohort set out to complete projects that ranged from studying the effects of HIV treatment on child development in South Africa to producing an award-winning play.

Thomas James Lombardo '13, Art History

With funding from his Rosen Fellowship, Thomas Lombardo produced, staged and acted in Don Nigro's Seascape with Sharks and Dancer in a small theater in the East Village. The experience was nothing less than a dream come true for the young actor, who often performed short scenes from the playwright's work in his high school drama classes. Juggling multiple roles both on stage and off, Lombardo learned the value of having a space to hone one's craft.

The play closed with three weekends of sold out shows.

"Not only is this a play I have always wanted to do, but it's been fully realized. We have a set; we have sound; we have lighting; we have costumes; and we have it in a really cool theater in the Village. I got what I wanted and more. Now that the play is over, what's wonderful is that I have a theater company, a group of actors and artists — and we're like-minded. There will be more plays on the horizon."

Sheran Sharafi '13, Political Science

Rosen Fellow Sheran Sharafi's project compared the judicial systems of the United States and Israel. She worked in Tel Aviv for a small advocate firm that represents military personnel and veterans in medical malpractice suits. While attending court and arbitration meetings with the advocates, Guy Nissim and Avahai Dar, she came to understand that while Israeli laws were formed from several judicial traditions, there was a common bond with the United States' codes. However, Sharafi's interest soon shifted as the countries around Israel underwent an unprecedented historical change. Living in the midst of such sudden change, she began to turn her attention to include international relations and human rights.

"The experience made me realize how all countries in the region are connected to one another. It makes me want to be part of helping the area find stability and move toward peace."

"It has been an amazing experience to work with the foundation in creating these fellowships. It is such a good feeling to see how much these creative and exceptional students experienced, accomplished and contributed."

ROSEN FELLOWSHIP

“The Best of Brooklyn Award meant so much to me because it came from friends, fellow alumni and staff at Brooklyn College with a sincerity and passion that reflects the wonderful culture that makes me very proud of my alma mater,” Sass said.

Last May, at the second annual Brooklyn College Night gala, the foundation honored Martin D. Sass '63 with the Best of Brooklyn Award in recognition of his success and tremendous generosity to the college.

In addition to being strong supporters of Brooklyn College and our students, Sass and his wife Barbara '63 are founders of the Sass Foundation for Medical Research.

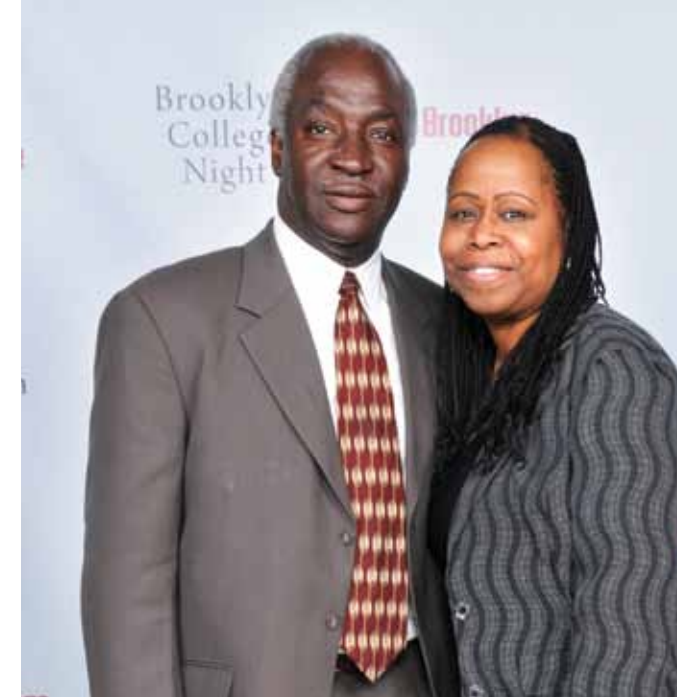

Martin Sass, a member of the foundation's board of trustees, is founder and CEO of M.D. Sass, one of the world's leading independent investment firms. M.D. Sass manages more than $7 billion in assets for global corporations, state and local governments, and individual investors, among others.

Hundreds of alumni and friends attended Brooklyn College Night, which was held at Steiner Studios. Over dinner, guests conversed with distinguished hosts on a variety of topics, such as writing for young adults with Sara Shepard '05, author of Pretty Little Liars, and a discussion of the art of collecting fine art with Don and Mera '65 Rubell, founders of the Rubell Family Collection.

The event raised more than $425,000 to support academic programs, student scholarships, faculty development and other college priorities.

“The annual fund serves as a renewable stream of sustainable revenue, enabling the college to meet current institutional priorities. Every annual fund dollar is available to be spent and, therefore, has the immediate impact of 25 endowment dollars.”

Andrew Sillen '74

Thanks to your generosity and unrestricted gifts, the foundation was able to fulfill every financial commitment to students, professors and programs.

FOUNDATION BOARD COMMITTEES

Executive Committee

The executive committee comprises all officers and committee chairs, and the president of Brooklyn College. The executive committee has all the powers of the board when the board is not in session. The executive committee considers key recommendations from the board committees listed below and sets the agenda for the full board meeting.

Audit and Finance Committee

Mark Steiger '89, Chair

The audit and finance committee selects and works with the foundation's auditors, currently Loeb & Troper, to ensure that the foundation continues to meet nationally accepted auditing standards. In addition to reviewing the annual financial statements and budget, the committee examines employee policies and procedures to ensure foundation compliance with CUNY best practices.

Development Committee

Marge Magner '69, Chair

The development committee provides oversight of the fundraising activities of the foundation, including monitoring the staffing and goal-setting of the development office. Members provide critical advice on alumni research, cultivation, solicitation and stewardship.

Investment Committee

Martin Sass '63, Chair

The investment committee is charged with prudently building the foundation's endowment fund to secure the long-term future of Brooklyn College. Committee members are responsible for the development and periodic review of the fund's investment policies and guidelines, and for asset allocation to various investment strategies to achieve appropriate diversification of the fund's investments based on its needs and objectives. The committee selects, meets with and manages a variety of outside professional investment managers, in consultation with an outside adviser and monitoring firm.

Governance and Nominating Committee

Myron Kandel '52, Chair

The governance and nominating committee is charged with ensuring best-practice governance of the foundation and continued development of the foundation's board of trustees. Responsibilities include directing research for prospective board members and providing recommendations for new board candidates, for officers of the foundation and for honorary governors.

Planned Giving Committee

Sam Beller '59, Chair

Planned giving committee members provide guidance and technical expertise on planned gifts in the form of bequests, charitable gift annuities, charitable remainder trusts, life insurance or gifts of stock or real estate to Brooklyn College.

Student Life Committee

Florence Cohen Rosen '59, Chair

The student life committee engages foundation trustees in campus activities and programs that enrich the lives of students. Foundation trustees are joined on this committee by other distinguished alumni, the director of the Magner Center and the vice president of student affairs. This committee also includes up to four members of student governments composed of two representatives from the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences and one each from the School of General Studies and the Graduate Student Organization.

BOARD COMMITTEES

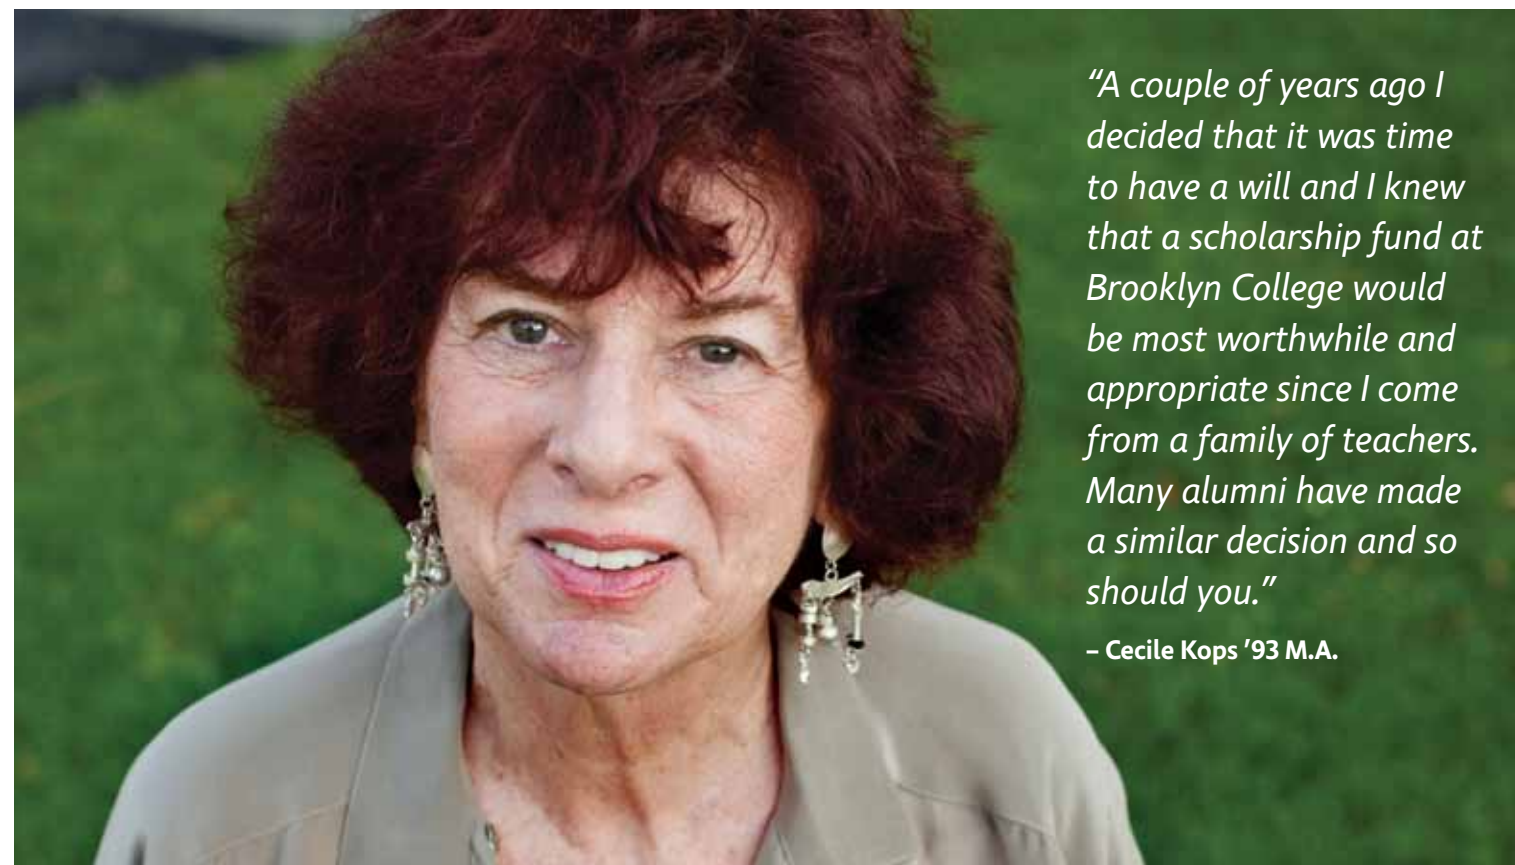

THE LEGACY SOCIETY

We honor the members of our Legacy Society for their visionary gifts to the future of Brooklyn College. The Legacy Society is a group of generous alumni and friends who have named the Brooklyn College Foundation in their wills, trusts, charitable gift annuities, insurance policies or retirement plans. We are grateful for their extraordinary commitment to future generations.

"A couple of years ago I decided that it was time to have a will and I knew that a scholarship fund at Brooklyn College would be most worthwhile and appropriate since I come from a family of teachers. Many alumni have made a similar decision and so should you."

– Cecile Kops '93 M.A.

THE BOYLAN SOCIETY

We gratefully acknowledge members of the Boylan Society, who make long-term, monthly donations to the Brooklyn College Foundation. These sustainable contributions provide monthly income we can count on to meet the growing needs of the college and its students.

CLASS OF 1961 50th REUNION GIFT

We are grateful to the members of the Class of 1961 who celebrated their 50th reunion by giving back to Brooklyn College. Thanks to their generosity, a fund has been established to restore a 1939 Steinway and Sons grand piano. The refurbished piano will reside in the State Lounge at the Student Center, where it will enhance the center's ability to hold student recitals, receptions and community musical events.

HOW YOU CAN SUPPORT BROOKLYN COLLEGE

The Brooklyn College Foundation relies on the generosity of individuals, foundations and corporations to help further the college's mission of providing high-quality, affordable education to students. There are many ways that donors can support our work.

The Annual Fund

Unrestricted annual gifts by alumni and friends provide for current needs that cannot be funded by state assistance, tuition or fees. The college increasingly relies on such private contributions to strengthen its programs. Common uses of unrestricted funds include student and faculty support, emergency renovations, academic initiatives, research assistance and the purchase of books, collections, supplies and equipment.

The Legacy Society: Planned Gifts

Members of the Legacy Society share our vision of academic excellence for future generations by making a provision for the college in their estate planning. The Brooklyn College Foundation offers several future-oriented investment opportunities including charitable gift annuities, charitable remainder trusts or life insurance. Legacy Society members may also make planned gifts in the form of a bequest.

The Boylan Society

The Boylan Society is the Brooklyn College Foundation's monthly giving program. When you join the Boylan Society, you authorize the foundation to receive a monthly tax-deductible gift from your checking account or by credit card. This is a wonderful opportunity to provide dependable, enduring and reliable support to your alma mater. You will no longer need to be concerned with renewal payments or reminder mailings. And since automatic monthly gifts do not require outreach efforts to secure, they are the most efficient way to sustain the level of academic excellence at Brooklyn College.

Gifts Online

It is now easier than ever to make a donation to Brooklyn College! Just log on to the Brooklyn College Foundation website, www.brooklyncollegefoundation.org, and use our secure connection to make a tax-deductible gift with your credit or debit card with a MasterCard, American Express, Visa or Discover logo. We also accept automatic fund transfers through your checking or savings account. It is a wonderful and convenient way to help us continue our work on behalf of Brooklyn College students.

Establishing a Scholarship, Award or Prize

The Brooklyn College Foundation offers scholarships and awards—valued at more than $1.2 million annually—to provide deserving students with access to excellence and opportunity. Within limits, a scholarship, award or prize may reflect the specific wishes of a donor. Many funds have been established to honor a former student or faculty member, or to encourage students in a particular academic area. Establishing a scholarship, award or prize can also be a very personal and special way to memorialize a loved one's interests.

Naming Opportunities

Brooklyn College is home to a wide spectrum of naming opportunities to help you achieve your philanthropic goals. Individuals or groups of donors may select from a menu of naming options ranging from commemorative bricks in front of our new West Quad Center, to benches near our beloved lily pond, to classrooms or lecture halls around campus. These are very special opportunities to leave behind a legacy at the college, while contributing to the success of future Brooklyn College students.

Tributes and Memorials

The Brooklyn College Foundation Tribute and Memorial Program was created in response to alumni requests as a means to offer special recognition to those who have made a difference in your life. A donation to the Tribute and Memorial Program gives you the opportunity to honor a loved one, friend, business associate or caregiver. Gifts have been made to commemorate special occasions including birthdays, anniversaries or retirement. The program is a meaningful way to express feelings of remembrance or gratitude.

Matching Gifts: Double the Impact of Your Donation!

Each year, more than 7,000 corporations provide matching funds to educational and cultural organizations across the country. If your company matches employee contributions to higher education, you may be eligible to have your gift to the Brooklyn College Foundation matched. Your company's human resources department or personnel office will most likely have details about an employee match benefit. Complete the matching-gift form provided by your employer and send it with your gift. The foundation will process the company form and notify you when the match is received.
