

April 20, 2022

Dear Brooklyn College Students,

The New York State Board of Regents voted at its April 2022 meeting to change the teacher assessment requirement for certification. The change eliminates the edTPA requirement for certification as of April 27, 2022. Instead, all teacher preparation programs will design and integrate a teacher performance assessment into their program requirements starting the Fall of 2023.

For our currently enrolled students, if you can complete your programs before Fall 2023 you will be able to graduate, apply and become certified, and be hired without completing the edTPA or any other teacher performance assessment. Students who are still enrolled students in Fall 2023 and beyond will have to complete a Brooklyn College designed teacher performance assessment in order to be certified.
